Message from the CEO
Core Values are the Heart and Soul of HCN

As we move forward in what we are calling “Our Defining Year,” the winds of change and opportunity continue to swirl about Health Choice Network. In times such as these, it is comforting to have a bedrock of beliefs to anchor your organization and guide your actions.

In the last issue of Friends, we unveiled our new mission and vision statements. These were the result of intensive planning sessions in which the Board, staff and consultants looked at our short and long-term goals.

Now we are introducing our Core Values - a list of concepts and attributes that both define how we do business and establish the goals we strive to maintain as we deal professionally and personally with others.

Each employee will be expected to rely on the values as a guide when serving our members and will be evaluated by their performance in pursuing excellence through the core values.

Below are only the titles of our Core Values, the complete definitions are available for all to review.

As we move forward, our services, members and partners might change, but our Core Values will remain, defining Health Choice Network as an organization we can all be proud to call our own!

Sincerely:
Kevin Kearns, President and CEO

HCN Family Gathers For Annual Retreat

More than one hundred members, staff, patrons, friends and families of Health Choice Network gathered at Marco Island for the 12th Annual Boards of Directors Educational Retreat.

Under the theme of “Our Defining Year” the three day event included educational sessions that focused on state and national advocacy issues affecting community health centers and included speakers such as Marc Wetherhorn, National Advocacy Director of NACHC. Other topics and panel discussions included information technology, the importance of integration, customer service excellence, reinventing managed care and an overview of CareNet, School Health Connect and Magellan Behavioral Health. Highlights included the opening night networking event and several surprise staff and Board presentations and awards for President and CEO Kevin Kearns in recognition of his dedicated leadership.

Basketball Competition Heats Up

Is there a place for hoops in health care? Definitely. The proof lies in the growing rivalry between the HCN Heat and squads from member centers (particularly the CHI All-Stars). Perhaps inspired by the success of the NBA’s Miami Heat, member organizations have put together teams for friendly and spirited competition. Other member centers are welcome to join in the fun!
